

CrimsonLogic Engaged to Implement an eJudiciary Programme for the Judiciary of Mauritius

Utilising technology to enhance judicial administrative transparency and efficiency

SINGAPORE, 14 September 2010 – CrimsonLogic, leading provider of eGovernment solutions and services, announced that it has been appointed to implement an eJudiciary programme in Mauritius. This will improve court administration with aims to boost judicial transparency and efficiency, promote the legal community's professionalism and facilitate citizens' access to justice.

The Judiciary of Mauritius expressed, "Technology is a key focus in Mauritius as we strive to become an info-communications hub in the region. Our collaboration with CrimsonLogic is a step towards harnessing infocomm technology in line with our vision to turn Mauritius into a 'cyber island'."

Commissioned by the Judiciary of Mauritius and in partnership with local partner Mauritius Network Service, CrimsonLogic will be establishing an eJudiciary platform that delivers e-Filing and Case Management capabilities to computerise internal processes for the Supreme Court in phase one of the project. The rollout of activities from planning, designing, marketing, delivering and supporting various eJudiciary services will take place over a period of 18 months.

The programme will enable the Judiciary to move towards a paperless system from a manually-based one, easing the reliance on paper and eliminating the need for physical storage space and security. This integrated platform enables seamless case filing, notary services and legal research – minimising the potential of human error and time spent on these practices. The legal fraternity will also benefit from its single user interface where the easy management of cases from initiation, trial and then disposal can be facilitated. In addition, CrimsonLogic will work closely with the Judiciary to drive user adoption amongst government officials and the legal community.

Said Mr Leong Peng Kiong, Chief Executive Officer (CEO), CrimsonLogic Pte Ltd, "It is an honour to be chosen by the Judiciary of Mauritius to develop and set up an eJudiciary system. Having developed and operated electronic filing and legal systems over the past 10 years for governments around the world, we are well-prepared to leverage our expertise and establish a comprehensive cluster of eJudiciary services in Mauritius. The successful implementation of this eJudiciary project can serve as a reference model by other African countries that are also keen to modernize and automate the Judicial procedures."

Mr Bernard Chan, General Manager (GM) of Mauritius Network Service expressed, "CrimsonLogic was a clear choice as a partner due to its expertise in eJustice systems. Its excellent track record was another key factor in our selection – a stamp of assurance which will bring us closer to our vision of an advanced Mauritius in the information technology arena.”

L-R: Mr Bernard Chan, GM of Mauritius Network Service in a firm handshake with Mr Tan Sian Lip, Vice President, Solutions and Consulting, CrimsonLogic, signifying their partnership to roll out an eJudiciary system in Mauritius.
